Allowable Subject Matter

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

The prior art fails to teach a method for establishing a first credit line associated with the credit card based on the determined level of risk associated with the cardholder, the first credit line being set as a first revolving credit line and for purchase transactions made only with a particular merchant; establishing a second credit line associated with the credit card based on the determined level of risk associated with the cardholder, the second credit line being set as a second revolving credit line and for purchase transactions made with any merchant other than the particular merchant, wherein the first credit line is associated with a first available credit and the second credit line is associated with a second available credit, the second available credit distinct from the first available credit; issuing the credit card to the cardholder with the established first credit line as a main credit line and the established second credit line as an embedded credit line, wherein the first credit line is associated with a first credit limit and the second credit line is associated with a second credit limit, and the first credit limit includes the second credit limit, and the second credit limit is less than the first credit limit and wherein the sum of the first available credit and the second available credit does not exceed the first credit limit; adjusting the first available credit and the second available credit when a purchase is made against the second credit line; and adjusting only the first available credit when the purchase is made against the first credit line.

Emphasis, was placed on the limitations that the first and second lines of credit were associated with a "single" credit card and that the relationships of the first and second lines of credit as set forth above.

Art Unit: 3693

The art of record exemplifies the state of the art and as can be seen from the discussions of record fail to teach the relationship set forth above.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."

Art Unit 3693

1. (Currently Amended) A method for managing a credit card, the method comprising:

analyzing credit information of a cardholder to determine a level of risk associated with the cardholder;

establishing a first credit line associated with the credit card based on the determined level of risk associated with the cardholder, the first credit line being set as a first revolving credit line and for purchase transactions made only with a particular merchant;

establishing a second credit line associated with the credit card based on the determined level of risk associated with the cardholder, the second credit line being set as a second revolving credit line and for purchase transactions made with any merchant other than the particular merchant, wherein the first credit line is separate from the second credit line and is associated with a first available credit, and the second credit line is associated with a second available credit;

issuing the credit card to the cardholder with the established first credit line as a main credit line and the established second credit line as an embedded credit line, wherein the first credit line is associated with a first credit limit and the second credit line is associated with a second credit limit, and the first credit limit includes the second credit limit, and the second credit limit is less than the first credit limit and wherein the sum of the first available credit and the second available credit does not exceed the first credit limit;

adjusting the first available credit and the second available credit when a purchase is made against the second credit line; and adjusting only the first available credit when the purchase is made against the first credit line.
